

FEEL PASSENGERS HAVE BEEN SAVED

They Cling to Wrecked Veronese While Giant Seas Sweep Over Them.

BODIES WASHED ASHORE

Vessel Is in Perilous Position and Likely to Break in Pieces.

Second Cable Slung

Oporto, Portugal, January 17.—A second cable from the shore to the steamer was slung successfully this evening and the work of rescue resumed. It is hoped now that it will be possible to take off the 170 persons still on board the Veronese. The cable reached the ship from the steamer to-night. It was empty. It was not known whether it was sent from the shore or whether a possible occupant of it was thrown out of it by the waves and drowned.

Oporto, Portugal, January 17.—The British steamer Veronese, which was wrecked near here yesterday morning, is still in a perilous position, and, contrary to previous reports, only a few of the 170 passengers have been saved. The only lifeboat from the Veronese with the shore broke after thirty-three of those on board, most of them women and children, had been rescued. Several lives are known to have been lost.

The sea, however, has become more moderate, and the salvagers are making efforts to establish another line from the shore to the ship. One of those rescued from the Veronese was a girl of fifteen years. She said the people on board the vessel were in a dreadful plight and the ship was half submerged. Several passengers had been washed overboard by huge seas, which swept the steamer from stem to stern.

After the cable connecting the Veronese with the shore broke several boats tried to reach the wreck, but were smashed on the rocks.

A number of bodies, mostly of children, were washed ashore to-day. Two Portuguese longshoremen were drowned while attempting to swim out to the wreck with life.

The port authorities are making heroic efforts to get another cable out to the Veronese, and save the remainder of the passengers and crew. It is feared, however, that the vessel will not be able much longer to resist the tremendous seas which at times completely cover her.

Refuse To Be Rescued.
Liverpool, January 17.—The captain and mate of the British steamer Auchenard, which was wrecked on the Mersey, twenty feet above the water, refused to leave their perch to-day after the Auchenard was sunk in the mouth of the Mersey by a collision with the British steamer Lablache.

The Auchenard had gone down bow first, leaving her propeller high above the water, and the captain and mate took refuge there, after refusing Lablache's offer to rescue them.

After staying for hours on the Lablache, the captain and mate of the Auchenard refused to leave their perilous position, and were taken off in a tug.

Russian Bark Found.
Washington, January 17.—The abandoned Russian bark, Dorotha, was found today by the U. S. cutter, the U. S. S. Albatross, 40 miles east of Cape Henry, Va.

This vessel, bound from Mobile to Rio Janeiro, is supposed to have been wrecked during one of the recent storms.

Nothing is known here as to the fate of her crew. The Seneca will tow the bark to Bermuda, a distance of 350 miles. The cutter, the U. S. S. Albatross, is sweeping the Atlantic coast in search of the bark Carrie Winslow and the schooner Future.

Given Up As Lost.
New York, January 17.—The Morgan Line freight steamer Eldorado, ten days overdue at Galveston, Tex., after leaving Baltimore January 1, was entered on the maritime exchange to-day as lost.

The Eldorado, one of the last of the fleet of iron steamers engaged in coastwise trade, carried a cargo of thirty-nine and no passengers. Officers of the Southern Pacific Railway Company, owners of the vessel, believe she foundered during the hurricane of January 2 and 3.

Part of Crew Rescued.
London, January 17.—The steamer Asuncion de Larrazabal, bound from Galveston for Manzanera, Tex., signaled the station at Brownhead to-night that she has on board five members of the crew of the American schooner Future.

The schooner Future hailed from Boston and was on her way to Washington from Tampa, when wrecked on the Southern coast of the United States in the gales of early January. It had been thought that the crew of the Future perished.

Carried Eight Men.
Boston, January 17.—The schooner Future, five of whose crew are reported from Brownhead, England, as being stranded on a passenger-carrying vessel, carried eight men. Relatives of Captain Larkin and members of the crew in this city had heard nothing from them to-night.

Suit Instituted.
Suit was instituted yesterday in the City Circuit Court by the Gravenor Vehicle Company, Inc., against Thomas J. Snyder, for damages laid at $500.

Mr. Lipscomb Injured.
E. H. Lipscomb is confined to his apartment in the Hanover as a result of a slight accident. He will be able to return to his office in the next few days.

Principals in Last Chapter of Brandt Case

FOLKE E. BRANDT.

STATEHOUSE AT ALBANY.

GOVERNOR SULZER.

COL. GOETHALS TELLS WILSON ABOUT CANAL

Governor Sulzer about the case last night was continued to-day up to the time that he announced his resignation. His new application Brandt retracted all the stories he has told as reasons for being in the Schiff home. He made a full and detailed confession to the Governor.

Whitman Satisfied.
New York, January 17.—It seems to me entirely on the records here that there was sufficient ground to justify the conviction of the defendant. My recommendation, which I assume is before Governor Sulzer, was made to Governor Dix a year ago. The report was made after a thorough examination of all the records obtainable of the proceedings which led to the conviction and the sentence.

Judge Otto A. Rosalsky, who sentenced Brandt to the State Prison, said that he was not satisfied with the conviction. He was accompanied by a number of members of the Swedish delegation that worked for the pardon and Victor L. Watson, a newspaper man, at whose home Brandt said he would spend the night.

Brandt arrived here shortly after 8 o'clock last night. He was accompanied by a number of members of the Swedish delegation that worked for the pardon and Victor L. Watson, a newspaper man, at whose home Brandt said he would spend the night.

MADE STATEMENT

Committee Can Go No Further Till More Power Is Granted.

PUJO MAKES STATEMENT

Work Has Been Embarrassed by Refusal of President to Give Information.

Washington, January 17.—Hearings of the House money trust committee will be suspended next Friday or Saturday, according to an announcement to-night by Representative Pujol, chairman of the committee, who asserted as the principal reason for the suspension the doubt cast upon the power of the committee to disclose the names of individual loans and borrowers of upwards of $1,000,000, which would affect only the largest institutions in the United States.

"Without this information and in the absence of the names of the individuals who have made huge profits in a comparatively short time, it is manifestly impossible for the committee to ascertain whether, and if so, to what extent, these banks and their funds have been used and how they have been used in the interest of the individual financial interests in the furtherance of their schemes or the exclusion of competitors in the business."

In announcing the suspension of the oral hearings, Chairman Pujol points out that there are still upwards of $1,000,000 in the names of individuals who have not yet been examined and many important subjects bearing on the inquiry that have not been touched upon.

"When this committee was appointed, it continues the statement, it was announced that owing to doubt raised by the banks as to the power to inquire into their affairs as bearing on the concentration and control of money and credit it would be necessary to have further power. The bill conferring such power has passed the House and is still pending in the Senate."

"Since then the committee has repeatedly announced that it can do thoroughly or satisfactorily complete its labors without the exercise of that power."

"Appeals to the President and the Comptroller of the Currency for the information which was within the power of the President to grant, met with long delays that have embarrassed the work of the committee, but have resulted in no relief."

"The banks curiously regard even the character of their assets as secret information that they are entitled to withhold from the scrutiny of this committee."

"It would require at least three months after secured, to the banks in the committee in which to gather the data for further oral testimony, from which it is manifest that the committee will now pass, nothing in that direction can be accomplished during the present Congress."

"The committee is now preparing before the expiration of this Congress will be required for the preparation of an act to grant, met with long delays that have embarrassed the work of the committee, but have resulted in no relief."

"The committee will adjourn to February 25 to consider the report. Some further documents and documents may then be introduced to be embodied in the report."
